Hi,
What is the point of asking people for feedback if you are going to completely ignore every "concern" we raise? It does not matter how much scientific evidence is put in front of you incompetent, industry owned, traitors to the Australian people, you are going to move ahead with what the multinational corporations want done anyway. You people are a joke. Asking for "our feedback", I suppose that will make you feel good about yourselves while you sit around having a talkfest and then ignore everything presented to you anyway. You people disgust me. You have done this time and time again. You ask for feedback and then throw it in the bin. What if I present you with thousands of documents including ones from the US Navy and Air Force showing that microwaves from EMR emitting devices have been proven to cause damage to humans? Would you actually do something about it? No you wouldn't. So why even bother asking for our opinions?
